National education does not mean that subjects like physics and chemistry, engineering, and technology, change with the boundaries of nations. It means that there is a national heritage, a tradition of values into which the students should be initiated. India is not a geographical abstraction but a living spirit. The outlook associated with the country has been a spiritual one, that there are higher laws of the universe than those studied by sciences and technology, that the world is more than what we see, feel, touch and measure. Two principal features of the modern world are that we are members one of another, that there is no degree of God or man which compels us to be sick and hungry, poor and unemployed. The strong shall help the weak is the foundation of all civilized existence.

- i) What does national education mean?
- ii) In what areas the students should be initiated?
- iii) What outlook is associated to country?
- iv) Which are the principal features of modern world?
- v) Suggest an appropriate title to the passage.
